To the 3,854 chapters and 22,000,000 mbers of the American Red Cross.

The commissions which are now conducting the activities of the American Red Cross in foreign countries, as well as the temporary war organization in this country, will as a matter of course ultimately merge their energies with those of the permanent organization of the Red Cross.

With the war has developed the striking important fact that many men and women, some of whom had with great success devoted their lives entirely to business, came into the Red Cross organization at the outset of the war simply that they might serve, their country, but have realized such a satisfaction to themselves in the opportunity to serve mankind that they now desire to become a part of the permanent organization of the American Red Cross.

There may, therefore, be perfect confidence that the peace

The people hould therefore know as definitely as ossible the plans of this, their national humanitarian society.

Since the armistice was signed, I are had an opportunity to confer in aris with the heads of all American Red Cross commissions in Europe, and aire, in Washington with the president of the United States, the ward ouncil of the Red Cross divisions of the United States, the ward ouncil of the Red Cross divisions of the United States, the ward ouncil of the Red Cross divisions of the United States, the ward ouncil of the Red Cross divisions of the United States, the ward ouncil of the Red Cross divisions of the United States, the ward ouncil of the Red Cross is to go forwar, but as an agency of peace and permanent human service.

Since America's entry into the war, the purpose of our Red Cross has even primarily, to aid our army and away in the care our way men unies arms, and, secondly, to extend relief to the soldiers, sallors and certain of the Red Cross will the divisions organizations. Wherever our soldiers and civilians of the Red Cross will he not under the propose of our Red Cross has even primarily, to aid our army and away in the care our our soldiers and civilians of the Red Cross will be called on the health of the propose of our Red Cross has even to fine a great scale, but it will call for home of the Red Cross will be called on the health of the propose of our Red Cross has been primarily to aid our army and save the propose of our Red Cross has been primary to the propose of our Red Cross has been primarily to a do our army and save the propose of our Red Cross has been primarily to a do our army and save the propose of our Red Cross has bea human service rather than for large expenditures.

What the American Red Cross needs now is not so much contributions of money, as the continued devotion and loyalty of its members. This is peculiarly true at this moment of transition from war to peace. Annual membership involves the payment of only one dollar. The moneys thus received not only defray all the administration expenses of the organization, but leaves a substantial balance which, together with all funds subscribed directly for relief, is devoted solely to that purpose. The roll call of the nation is thus to be called at Christmas time, that through enrollment in their Red Cross, the American people may send a message to our soldiers still overseas and to the peoples of the world, that we are not content merely with seeing our arms united with our allies in victory, but that our abiding purpose is that the love, the sympathy and the intelligence of all America shall be rededicated to the permanent service of mankind.

It is a fact to be borne in mind that the effort on the part of nature to throw off the poisons during the attack of Spanish influenza results sometimes in nephritis, or inflammation of the kidneys. In view of the seriousness of this discusse as a result of toxemia, it is most essential that treatment be directed towards prompt elimination of the toxins (poisons) from the body. This means that the excretory organs—the bowels, skin and kidneys—should be excited to their best efforts to throw off the poisons. Send to the drug store and get castor oil, or a pleasant laxative such as Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets, which are made of May-apple, aloes and jalsp, and take these every other day. This will excite efficient bowel action. ### ATTORNEY-GENERAL REVIEWS YEAR; ENEMY AGENTS CAUGHT IN DRAGNET

Vast Work of Department of Justice in Ferreting German Secrets, Rounding Up Slackers, and Preventing Sabotage.

Washington. Dec. 5.—The story of how enemy agents have been caught, d.sloyalty suppressed, draft slackers apprehended, dangerous Germans interned, explosions and other sabotage prevented, and enemy secrets ferretted out for use against their armies abroad, was given to the public today in Atty.-Gen. T. W. Gregory's annual report. Through a great corps of department of justice civil officers, secret agents and citizen volunteers, this big job of policing has been accomplished, said the attorney-general, with a minimum disturbance to the normal life of communities, and with constant effort to avoid encroaching on freedom of speech, action and political criticism.

Referring to enforcement of the sandonapse act, Mr. Gregory said:

The department has been hampered in explosing agents have appeared sporadically, but none of them have gained any substantial footing, and it may be fairly said that prior to July 1. 1918. the effort of German sympathizers in the field of disloyal propaganda had almost completely failed."

The department has been hampered in explosions which had opposed the declaration of war, manifested itself in distinct opposition to the adoption and operation of the selective service act, but this type of propaganda was almost immediately suppressed and destroyed. It was followed by manifested itself in distinct opposition to the adoption and operation of the selective service act, but this type of propaganda was almost immediately suppressed and destroyed. T. W. Gregory's annual report. Through a great corps of department of Justice civil officers, secret agents and citizen volunteers, this big job of policing has been accomplished, said the attorney-general, with a minimum disturbance to the normal life of communities, and with constant effort to avoid encroaching on freedom of communities, and with constant effort to avoid encroaching on freedom of speech, action and political criticism. Referring to enforcement of the espionage act, Mr. Gregory said: "This department throughout the war has proceeded upon the general principle that the constitutional right of free speech, free assembly, and petition exist in war time as in peace time, and that the right of discussion of governmental policy and the right of political agitation are the most fundamental rights in

At the same time, the attorney-general explained, the department had tried to deal severely with propa-ganda having for a deliberate pur-pose the disintegration of the country's war strength.

"One of the distinct achievements of the American people," he said, has been the maintenance of order, the comparative failure of enemy acthe comparative latture of enemy ac-tivities and, speaking broadly, the general self-control and self-re-straint exhibited throughout the country in critical situations."

The attorney-general disclosed that only 6,000 enemy aliens have been ar-rested on presidential warrants and examined with a view to internment and that "a considerable number" of these have been placed in internment camps administered by the army. The balance were parolled. Most enemies interned were German men. and there were comparatively few German women or Austro-Hungar-About 480,000 Germans have been registered in the nation-wide census—250,000 men and 220,000 women. Slackers Apprehended. Up to last July 1, department of justice investigators had rounded up 23,439 young men who sought to escape the draft, and had caused their induction into the service. More than 220,000 case of men who for some reason or other had failed to file questionnaires or to appear for physical examination, were investigated.

Looking forward to peace conditions, the attorney-general makes a number of recommendations for re-form of judicial processes. Although he referred to the difficulty of pushing antitrust prosecutions during the war since the government itself has been in the business of suppressing competition, he made no suggestions for new antitrust legislation which congress is expected to undertake

War activities claimed the principal portions of the report, and after referring to the growth of the department's secret service to six times its size in 1916, and the efficient organization of the American Protec-tive league of 250,000 citizen volunteers, Mr. Gregory said:

"It is safe to say that never in its history has this country been so thoroughly policed as at the present

"When it becomes possible, through the lapse of time, to disclose fully the activities of these various secret services, their work will stand out as one of the substantial achievements of the war."

Hints of an American espionage system were given in the statement The legislation was recommended by that the secret services "have given Gov. Catts in his call for a special protection not only to the civilian session and was one of the reasons population but to the armed forces, for its convocation. and some of their activities have also Florida's legislature has adopted the general plan outlined by repre-enemy forces abroad." and some of their activities have also nals in this country."

"It has been the view of this department," the attorney-general said, "that every act of arbitrary and unnecessary interference with the life, habits, and occupation of the citizen, would lessen efficiency, disturb order, and weaken public confidence in the American standards of justice."

"The internal improvement improvement internal improvement in the say contract with the federal government looking to the locating of returned soldiers, sailors or marines and to utilize or convey in any such manner as deemed advisable such state lands as in their judgment may be necessary. and weaken public connuence in the American standards of justice." "He added that he had emphasized this view on other government de-partments, resulting "on a number partments, resulting on a number of occasions in preventing encroachments upon the jurisdiction of the civil tribunals of the country."

Considered Significant.

This was considered significant in view of the United States' ability to maintain the normal functioning of ordinary government machinery to a much greater extent than other belligerents. The government's internment policy also has been more lenient than those of England and France, the attorney-general stated, and the effi-ciency of the methods and principles

The department has been hampered in suppressing propaganda, said the attornoy-general, by "self-appointed committees or associations of citizens who, ignorant of or disantisfied with the scope of the federal laws, or jurisdiction, have sought to supplement them by extralegal measures of intimidation and punishment. Another hampering influence was the dissemination of hundreds of unfounded reports relating to use of polson gas by enemy agents, ground glass in food and damage to Red Cross supplies. hallance his ideas on the subject. In the meantime the best guaranty for mankind of peace for the world was the power of the British navy, which never has been abused in time of peace and never dishonored in time of war."

similar bodies, the attorney-geenral said:

"It has been the policy of this department that no person should be prosecuted or interned solely by reason of his membership in any such organization; that guilt is always personal, and that under no circumstances should any organization or body of men be prosecuted as such."

Of the 75,000 enemy allens applying for permission to complete their naturalization, which was stopped on the declaration of war, reports on more than 10,000 have been furnished the naturalization authorities of the department of labor.

Discussing the enforcement of antitrust laws Atty.-Gen. Gregory said:

"When natural laws of trade break down, as they have done during the war in many branches of trade, direct government action with respect to prices and methods of distribution may become essential in order to prevent private control of markets, for when natural laws of trade can no longer be depended upon to regulate markets, the only choice is between artificial control imposed by public agencies. In these circumstances, therefore, such direct governmental action, so far from running counter to the purpose of the Sherman act, is directly in Government Seeks Adjustment of Shipyard Dispute,
